

FRANKLIN COUNTY, PA JAIL

In 2004, CGL was hired as the County's program manager to oversee the design and construction efforts for the new $35 million (planned) Franklin County Jail. CGL led the planning effort to gather relevant and measurable justice data so Franklin County could build a jail with 200 fewer beds than first anticipated. The change in scope saved the County about $9 million in construction costs.

The new two-story, 130,000 square foot facility has 470 beds – three times the old jail - and is designed to add housing units without upgrades to the jail's infrastructure and administration. Franklin County used its savings to add a day reporting center for nonviolent offenders to provide life skills training and counseling services.

CGL currently provides Facility Maintenance at the Franklin County Jail and throughout the entire County. Our performance feedback offers more than three years of information on the performance of design features, equipment and technologies like the handheld computer security controls in the housing units.
